Phoenix Championships Qualifying and Seeding Scenarios

Heading into the Gold Series Chicago Open By: Mark Schuermann

This is about to be a crazy amount of information. EVERY possible Phoenix Championship qualifying scenario for EVERY team in the running is in here. Trust me, it gets mind-numbing after a while. You don't need to memorize everything in here.

But when Chicago comes, keep this handy. Each match will be more than meets the eye, will have something a bit bigger on the line. Then all of the sudden, one of these ridiculous potentials will start to play out. And when your team is in a big match, you'll want to have this so you know how crucial that match really is.

Before we get into the real meat, let's start with some Phoenix Championships basics. It's an all new format created to feature the best-of-the-best at the end of Summer, where every team has a chance to earn their way into a coveted competition.

Phoenix Championships Notes

- Two-day event on Friday and Saturday, September 23-24, 2022
- Footprint Center in Phoenix, Arizona
- 6 Men's and 6 Women's teams
- Friday night will see two matches each for the Men and Women; 3-seed vs. Wild Card and 4-seed vs. Wild Card. The winners of these matches will make it to Saturday's semifinals.
- The top 2 teams in the Road to Phoenix Standings will receive a bye into the semifinals.
- The format will be single elimination. However, 5th and 3rd place will be played out on Saturday, so all teams in Phoenix are guaranteed to play at least two matches and are guaranteed to play on Saturday.
- Only the top 4 teams in the Road to Phoenix Standings qualify (plus 2 Wild Cards)
- A team's position in the Road to Phoenix Standings is determined by the rankings points earned in their best two of three Gold Series finishes. In the case of a tie in the Standings, a team's third Gold Series finish will be the tiebreaker.

Document Key (remember, I have a very high nerd ceiling)

- Numbers alone (1 3 5) signify Phoenix seeding
- Numbers with ordinals (1st 3rd 5th) signify Chicago finishes
- PS = Phoenix Seed. Also, a team's position in the Road to Phoenix Standings
- BPS = Best possible Phoenix Seed, or the highest a team can possibly finish in the Road to Phoenix Standings
- Top 2 PS = 1 or 2 seed in Phoenix, which would earn a bye into the Saturday semifinals
- To Improve = Minimum finish needed in Chicago to increase a team's points in the Road to Phoenix Standings

BUCKLE UP

Rankings Point Combinations for Gold Series Finishes

1st/1st = 4.6421st/2nd = 4.5261st/3rd = 4.4162nd/2nd = 4,4102nd/3rd = 4.3001st/5th = 4.2123rd/3rd = 4.1901st/7th = 4,1172nd/5th = 4.0961st/9th = 4.0272nd/7th = 4.0013rd/5th = 3.9862nd/9th = 3.9113rd/7th = 3.8911st/13th = 3.8613rd/9th = 3.8015th/5th = 3.7822nd/13th = 3.7455th/7th = 3.6873rd/13th = 3.6355th/9th = 3.5977th/7th = 3,592

Teams are presented below in order of the Road to Phoenix Standings and projecting a minimum 13th place finish in Chicago. One Women's team (Hildreth/Marciniak) and three Men's teams (Dalhausser/Patterson, Benesh/Evans, Dietrich/Smith) are ranked above others who have more points than they do. This is because they have only played one Gold Series event as of yet. These four teams will automatically gain points for 13th place by starting their first match in Chicago, which will slot them into the Standings as presented.

Teams that are playing either their 2nd or 3rd Gold Series event together in Chicago but are mathematically unable to get inside the top 4 PS are not included in the Standings below.

Women

Out of the 16 Chicago teams, 9 have a shot at getting inside the top 4 PS. One team in the Standings, Zana Muno & Brandie Wilkerson, aren't playing together in Chicago. But they are still looking strong as the 3 PS; while not fully safe, only one combination of results would prevent them from booking their ticket to Phoenix.

After their win in Manhattan Beach, Sara Hughes & Kelley Kolinske are the only team, Women or Men, to have secured a top 2 PS and a bye into the Championships semifinals. Terese Cannon & Sarah Sponcil have also claimed a spot in Phoenix, but they aren't guaranteed a bye.

A team you may be surprised to learn does not have a chance to qualify outright for Phoenix are the Atlanta winners, Julia Scoles & Geena Urango. They finished with a 13th in Manhattan Beach and are not playing together in Chicago. This leaves them as the current 5 PS and unable to improve their position. I've left them in the Standings for reference and clarity.

Below are the qualifying scenarios for all of our Women's teams still in contention for Phoenix. I've also included each team's path (if they have one) to enter Phoenix as the 1 or 2 seed, which would earn them a bye into those precious Saturday semifinals.

1. Sara Hughes & Kelley Kolinske (4,416) — Secured a Spot in Phoenix & Top 2 PS, BPS 1 To Improve: 2nd

2. Terese Cannon & Sarah Sponcil (4,300) - Secured a Spot in Phoenix, BPS 1

 - -2nd from Kloth/Nuss, Quiggle/Schermerhorn or Kraft/Stockman

Men

Out of the 16 teams playing in Chicago, there are 12 teams with an opportunity to lock in their place to the Phoenix Championships. Only one team is secured already: Theo Brunner & Chaim Schalk. Despite not having a Gold Series victory, their two 2nd place finishes make it impossible for four teams to jump them in Chicago.

Compared to the Women, the Men's side is quite a bit more convoluted. Below are the qualifying scenarios for all 12 of our potential Phoenix Men's teams, all of whom are competing in Chicago.

1. Theo Brunner & Chaim Schalk (4,410) — Secured a Spot in Phoenix, BPS 1
